Compliance with Law No. 24 of 8 March 2017 (the Gelli Law)

Law No. 24 of 8 March 2017, 'Provisions concerning the safety of care and of the person receiving care, as well as concerning the professional liability of healthcare professionals', has reformed and regulated matters relating to the safety of care and of the person receiving care, healthcare risk, the liability of healthcare professionals, and that of public or private healthcare facilities. It introduced a mandatory attempt at conciliation, setting out the procedures for legal proceedings concerning healthcare liability, as well as the obligation for healthcare professionals to take out, at their own expense, insurance policies covering their liability for any gross negligence.

The Act also imposed obligations on healthcare facilities to publish information on their institutional websites in order to uphold the principle of transparency.
